Internet Services

Secure Infrastructure

The public face of the Internet may be slick and quick but it depends on a secure, stable and intricate infrastructure. Not to worry. You can enjoy the functionality, we'll take care of technical needs like:

- Installing, monitoring and maintaining web servers, firewalls, and the rest of your hardware
- Implementing and updating security software and patches
- Protecting you from hackers, viruses and other intruders
- Reporting on usage and availability
- Providing on-site recovery services

Strategic Planning

Who's visiting your site and why? How should it be designed, promoted and maintained to target your specific audience your way? We'll help you understand the potential of the Internet, evaluate your success and plan for the future.

Effective Web Site Content and Design

The primary goal of any web site is effective communication. We'll make sure your site always connects with your visitors, on your terms, no matter what type of site you have:

Simple Brochure-ware: Your site just needs a new product posted here, a press release there. We'll make sure it's always up-to-date.

Relationship Development: You want to build strong one-to-one bonds with clients and contacts through on-line newsletters, web-features and more. We'll show you how.

Document Publishing: Departments across your organization want to upload new documents to your site all the time. We'll give them the database tools to publish with a click.

E-Commerce/Customer Service: Clients can easily place orders, make payments, track progress in real-time and access accounts, all on-line. We'll build the convenient storefront that they see and the complete connection to back-end databases that you need.

Internal Knowledge Portal: The wisdom of your company is hidden in hundreds of hard to find documents. We'll make it visible, available and secure.
