Let's say you sell a particular type of motor. The Inventory Portal will tell you the status of every individual motor in your warehouses – how many there are, where they're located, who has ordered them and more.

You can browse through and sort a list of files connected to your inventory item, and open up each individual document including:

- Location
- Qty on Hand
- Qty Committed to Sales
- Qty on Order
- Serial or Lot #
- Any other category in your database

Manage More Effectively

Manage your purchasing and sales effectively by knowing what you have in your warehouse and how it's selling.

Just key in the item and you'll instantly see the quantity on hand and the total sales over any time period.

Respond to Customer Questions

Understanding your inventory can be the difference losing a difficult order and making it work.

You get a rush order, but your quantity on hand is zero. A lost sale? It doesn't have to be.

Check your company's other warehouses. Is there one close enough to deliver on time?

What about your quantity committed to sales? If delivery on another order isn't due for two weeks, maybe you can pull stock from there. Is a new shipment on the way that will replenish your supply before the delivery date?

Inventory portal answers these and other questions for you with two clicks, giving you the information you need to complete complicated transactions and improve your sales.
